A Card to the Public.

The following will explain itself:

TO THE EDITOR OF THE APPEAL:—Mr. M. Cohn having stated to some of his lady customers that I was "too fresh" and he "let me out," I am compelled in justice to myself to say it did not rest with him in any way, but that I would not stay on any terms with such an unprincipled man, and I left him on my own accord. I was engaged as his manager and introduced by him as such on my first arrival. The ladies and business men of Carson know how successfully and conscientiously I conducted the business, simply because I would be no party to extortion, and my proposition was to buy at low and sell at fair prices. Without descending to low personalities, but with extra exertion I increased his sales three fold, and my business opponents will be the first to acknowledge my ability as a dry goods man. The sale was Mr. Cohn's idea to sell off his old stock and an excuse to collect his debts, and the business after the sale was to be run by me as the "Chicago Dry Goods Company." These are the plain facts and if Mr. Cohn says differently, I say plainly and emphatically he is a liar, and I will give him any satisfaction he may desire.

I. F. THORPE.

Carson, July 17th, 1890.

ANOTHER RACE.—Walter Ober telegraphed a challenge to Ben Rosenthal to run 100 yards within six weeks, pistol shot start for $1,000 a side. Rosenthal answered that he would accept the challenge provided Ober would agree to a mutual consent start. Ober has not yet been heard from in answer to this.

THORPE VS. COHN.

A Trial of Speed Without Stop Watches.

Yesterday afternoon, while Mr. Thorpe was sitting in the Arlington House office reading, M. Cohn stepped up to him with a revolver apparently with the intention of taking a shot at him. Thorpe was quick enough, however, to evade the nervous arm of Mr. Cohn, and immediately took steps to vacate the premises, which feat he accomplished in short order, with Cohn in close pursuit. The chase lasted but a few minutes, after which the principles moved off, eyeing each other closely when they met on the street.

Thorpe had Cohn arrested on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. Cohn had Thorpe arrested, charged with threatening to kill. Both were released on their own recognizance.

Expensive Information.

Some time ago a well known Virginia man sent his horse up the valley to pasture, with the understanding that the bill was to be paid when he sent for the animal.

Not long ago he gave a boy $8 to get the horse and bring him to Virginia. The necessary money was also given the boy to pay the feed bill.

When the youngster arrived at the ranch he stated his errand and was informed that the pasture bill was $15, which he immediately paid securing his receipt. He then inquired where the horse was, but the rancher turned around with a cold, brass-mounted expression on his face and informed the boy that the horse was dead.

Of course it is generally supposed that the application of a two-cent stamp to a properly addressed envelope will find most any man, but the only reliable way to do is to pay a boy $8 and send him to the party in person. By this method it will only take a small national surplus to keep people posted up in their business.

Board of Pardons.

James Harrington, who killed John Sullivan in Virginia in 1876, and sentenced for 20 years, was pardoned. Two medical experts testified that Harrington would die if kept in prison another year.

On the application of Frank Butler the vote stood 2 and 2.

Applications of Annie Peterson and Charles Angelo denied.

Henry McOrmie, sent from White Pine county June 11, 1889, for selling whisky to Indians and sentenced to seven months' imprisonment and $500 fine. Balance of fine remitted and applicant ordered discharged.

The vote on the application of Daniel Methaney stood 2 to 2.

Applications of A. J. Karbon and Carmin Penia denied.
